MURDER INQUEST

THOMAS DICKSON, HELD BY COURT
Man, whose talk of Annie Mullins's murder led to his defense, after arrest in North Station. His story and recent actions are being inquired into by the police who are working the Arlington mystery.

ORDERED AFTER CONFERENCE MAN HELD

Arlington Police Want to Question Thomas Dickson, Arrested at North Station and Held on Charge of Drunkenness.

At the request of Policeman Isaac J. Colbert of the North End Division, Thomas Dickson of No. 86 Sea View avenue, Malden, who at first said that he lived at No. 63 Seaver street, that city, was to-day held in the Tombs in this city to be questioned by the Arlington police, who are trying to solve the mystery of the killing of handsome Annie Mullins in Squire's Field, Arlington.

To Judge Wentworth when he was asking that Dickson be held for questioning by the Arlington police, Policeman Colbert made this statement:

"It would like to have this case continued, Your Honor, as the Arlington police want to talk to this man. There will be another charge against him, probably."

District Attorney John J. Higgins of Middlesex county, following a long conference with State police and the police of Arlington to-day, announced that an inquest into the death of Annie Mullins would be held in the Third District Court, Cambridge, on Friday morning. From fifty to seventy-five witnesses are to be summoned for the inquest.

Dickson, who at first gave his name as Davids, was arrested last night at the North Station by Patrolman T. J. Colbert. The technical charge was drunkenness, but the man was really taken into custody for saying, when spoken to by Policeman Colbert, "I don't know where I live. I don't know what my name is. I don't know what you want me for. You want me for Annie Mullins's murder?"

Later, when questioned, Dickson declared that while he has lived in Malden his life he did not know where Arlington was.

At the patrol boat the man, whose strange actions had first attracted the attention of the policeman, kept repeating, "Annie, Annie, poor Annie."

WEARS NEW CLOTHING.
After a two-hour inquest today in the Tombs, Judge Wentworth ordered that Dickson be held in the Tombs until Friday morning, when he is to be held in the Tombs until Friday morning.

The inquest was held in the Tombs, where Dickson was held in the Tombs until Friday morning.

PIECE WORK MEANS STRIKE, SAY UNION

DELEGATES AT NEW HAVEN UNANIMOUSLY
RESOLVE TO FIGHT RAILROAD.

Following an all-night conference of union delegates at New Haven, the international officers representing the 5,000 car workers employed in the New Haven shops today presented their ultimatum to the railroad officials at a joint conference in that city over the institution of the piecework system.

The final word of the union officials was that all the expenses on the system would strike at once if the piecework and bonus system were extended further. The New Haven men have refused to change their position and last night announced that the new plan would be inaugurated immediately.

The report of the joint conference result will be telegraphed tonight to the union chiefs here, who will communicate the news to a mass meeting of representatives of all the federated crafts at the city of New Haven, Conn., at 8 o'clock to-morrow.

Many Ready to Quit Work.

It is expected that the executive committee of the different unions will, if the company holds firm, recommend action which will be virtually the same as an order to strike. Many of the locals have already voted to go out if the negotiations fail.

The unions to be represented at to-morrow's meeting here include the carmen, blacksmiths, boilermakers, painters, upholders and steamfitters.

There will also be a meeting of union upholders.

There are also a great many divorces and separations that are not the result of any fault on the part of either party. They are the result of a simple incompatibility of temperaments. No Reproach

There was no sign of embarrassment in Valentine's face as she accepted the case, adding indifferently: "Yes, I know the pearl ring with the sphinx head."

As had been agreed, the Asadiya and the Tramonds were to go together to the first night in the vaudeville. Mme. de Tramond was putting the finishing touches to her toilet, standing before her mirror, when her friend Valentine entered. In her eyes was no tinge of envy; on the contrary, her gaze was serene; herself, for she was absolutely self-possessed.

The two women seemed to be playing the last act of a little comedy, but a comedy of all our life, where many a weakness

For a moment the two friends looked at each other in silence, with a look that seemed to eliminate all weakness or pity. But then there was no sign of reproach, no

Heirless couple told by law

The little girl was confined to bed in an apartment suffering from nervousness, and is threatened with bronchitis, an old maid said.

Society considered it significant that Miss Helen M. Gould, 40, the only daughter of the youngest brother, was the only woman in the family who called upon her to-day, according to Gould's recollection.

It was said that Miss Helen M. Gould tried three times to talk with her sister on the telephone, but was unable to do so, evidence that her sister could not leave her room.

Reveals 'Trace Princes' Past

It is learned that the colored detective employed detectives in Europe to trace Prince's record, and particularly to determine whether or not his sister and her husband were in the country.

Prince was already married. The report on the Prince's past was a long one, and it was said that the colored detective was the opposition of the other executors of the late Prince's will, Miss Helen M. Gould and ex-Judge Edmond.

Prince Helle did not call at the St. Regis. Miss Gould, however, had his flowers, his notes and several long messages. While expressing sorrow that she was again threatened with breaching Prince Helle's law in revealing his misbehavior over the turn affairs had taken, "I am going back to Paris," she was the greeting he gave to a reporter.

"Does that mean that your snit for Miss Gould's hand will be postponed?" was asked.

The Prince smiled—the smile he uses when he is not going to make a question.

Congratulations, accompanied in many cases by beautiful gifts, are pouring in on Prince and Mrs. McJannet to-day from their apartments, No. 199 Huntington avenue, for this is the twenty-fifth anniversary

LORD CLIVE'S NEPHEW FOUND DEAD ON ROCKS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 1. — Jammed in a crevasse between two big rocks of Canada's borderland sea wall, the body of Lord Clive, an Englishman and a nephew of the late Lord Clive, was found yesterday in the Gulf of Mexico.

The body was found yesterday by a fisherman by the name of Joseph, who was fishing for snappers. He found the body of a man lying on his back, with his arms outstretched, and his legs bent at the knees. The body was found on a rock, and the man was wearing a white shirt and dark trousers. The man's name was Lord Clive, and he was a nephew of the late Lord Clive. The man was found dead, and the cause of death was not known.

How to Get Well for 50 cents—in a Month

For 50 Cents — in a Month

This is the trouble with nine people in ten who don't feel well.

The liver is torpid because of abuse. Because of wrong food and too little exercise.

The bowels have grown inactive. The waste of the system loads the blood with poisons.

Then one takes harsh pills—salts and pills—in trying to correct the wrong.

Thus the stomach and bowels become inflamed. The whole digestive system is upset.

All these results and quickly by the use of Cascara.

One early habit—once or twice a day. In a month, or less, you know what it is to be well.

Cascara aids digestion. Helps the phyllo destroy it.

Cascara's gently stimulate the liver. Cascara's help it to work.

Cascara's heat the bowels. Pills, salts and castor oil merely irritate.

If you tamper the foods for a month, as coarse food, fruit and green vegetables, the world would be the same as a month with Cascara.

But most people can't do that. For them, Cascara's bring the same results. Just be "natural," just as effectively.

Cascara's are candy tablets. As sold in the U. S. A. and Canada. They are good for the genuine, with CC's. Very rarefactions.

EDDIE SMITH SAYS REFEREE SHOULD HAVE GIVEN DECISION TO ATTELL OVER NELSON

BY W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Referee Eddie Smith called the fight between Abe Atteall and Battling Nelson a draw at the end of the fifteenth round. As I know Smith to be an honest man I have not the least suspicion that he dealt with the men other than as his judgment led him to do so. In my opinion, however, Atteall went so decisively that I cannot see how Nelson should have been allowed to share the honors of a draw. For the first few rounds Atteall fought the same way he promised he would. He stood toe to toe with the Dane and cuffed and cuffed until Nelson's face was spattered with blood. The crowd was amused the way Nelson's head was jerking and flinching. The punches that Atteall used were snappy ones, but not of the kind that produce knockouts. In the main he sacrificed force to speed, and in doing so he probably scored two punches to every one that the flutler landed. Of course, Nelson was after his man every second of the time. He could not fight in any other fashion if he tried. In the mixups the Dane took a dozen body punches for the privilege of landing one rasping right to the ribs. After about five rounds had passed Atteall changed his program. While not actually running away, he took things easy in the first half of each round. He either backed or else stood with head all covered up and allowed the Dane to hammer away at his nose above the hair line. Then and only then would he straighten, and the way he punched Nelson with both gloves must have made a new record for the greatest number of blows in a given time, if there ever was one. In the last three rounds Nelson made desperate efforts to knock out his opponent and failed. When fighting reached close Nelson's blows were the more telling, but in all the mixing matches from the first round to the last Atteall, in my opinion, had far the better of the millings.

Referee Smith said after the fight "I had to give a draw decision because I thought that Nelson's aggressiveness offset the clean hitting of Atteall, which, I must say, gave him more points than Nelson."

The team leaves for Indianapolis tomorrow to play off their schedule in that town. A day or two later the Red Sox will split up into two teams, to be matched some after, and then all to Boston for the opening season.
